LOGLINE: When the McGees go on a vacation in the Ghost World, they quickly overwhelm their overly nice hosts, Geoff & Jeff.

THEME: Don't let yourself get carried away

It's Spring Break and MOLLY, DARRYL, and SCRATCH beg MOM and DAD to take them on a trip somewhere -- all the other kids are going to cool places for Spring Break! But Mom and Dad have to break it to them that a vacation isn't in their budget. Their finances are stretched too thin as it is. But they could go camping in the backyard...! The kids are over backyard camping after doing it 10 Spring Breaks in a row. Scratch pipes up -- if money's the issue, he's got an idea for a totally FREE vacation! Geoff and Jeff are starting a Dead & Breakfast and are in need of test guests! Molly and Darryl's jaws drop -- a vacation in the Ghost World?! That would be SO fun. Mom and Dad are excited, too -- a free vacation! It would be really nice to get away.

The GHOST MCGEES arrive at Geoff & Jeff's and are welcomed into a luxurious suite. They insist the McGees ask for anything they could ever want -- they want to iron out any kinks before they open! The McGees are reluctant to impose on their friends at first, but quickly become total divas. They never get to relax in luxury, they have to soak up the opportunity! Dad calls for shiatsu massages at all hours, Mom snipes all of the tiny shampoo bottles then requests more, Scratch eats the entire mini-bar (refrigerator included), etc. Geoff and Jeff get overwhelmed with all the requests but try to keep their best-hosts-ever attitudes up. After all, they need to be ready for their grand opening! They pull out all the stops to take them on tours, put on a show for them, and cook them 10-course meals, but the McGees keep asking for more and more. Finally, when an excursion goes awry, Geoff and Jeff break down. They can't do it anymore! The McGees have gone TOO far!

They know they asked the McGees to put them to the test, but... now they're just taking advantage! The McGees are embarrassed. They're sorry. They've never had a nice vacation before, and... maybe they let themselves get swept up in the luxury. Geoff and Jeff admit they should've put a stop to it earlier, but they really need a good review to get their Dead & Breakfast off the ground! And Geoff hates saying no. He's a people pleaser! He can't help it! The McGees promise to leave a glowing review in the Ghost World Gazette. As Geoff and Jeff, they thank them for being their test guests. But, no offense, they think they're gonna close it off to living folk. Just for now! So... y'know, don't come back. Thanks!
